This is my second peer review for Isaiah! I have learned more about him, and he is a hand full. Isaiah is also really smart, and he has a lot of potential. He knows “hack” material in programming. For example, he knows the short routes. He has great knowledge and he has the mind of someone who is always thinking and coming up with great ideas. I have seen that’s how strength too. His ability to think of something better. More efficient. If he doesn’t know how it works, he looks it up and learns! He learns so quickly and so much. Isaiah is also super chill and very friendly. He is nice to be around. He’s funny and carefree, but he locks in when he needs to.

If this is a peer review so our peers can learn and grow from our experiences with them, then I want Isaiah to grow. Knowing Isaiah, his feelings won’t get hurt. He is cool and shrugs things off like nothing. SO! -

Isaiah, you have to be more careful when you speak. I think it would be better for your future coworkers or whoever you are working with if you make sure you are not conflicting with them anyway. Isaiah has a great mind, but he makes it seem like sometimes he has no control over it 😂. It makes him funny and comfortable to be around, but his personality could conflict around the wrong person. I think Isaiah would choose gentler tones, words, and not blurt out whatever is on his mind. Consider people’s feelings! Don’t conflict with them. Oh, and don’t interrupt! And say your please and thank you’s.